MAYOR RANCHO CORDOVA,
CALIFORNIA

Mayor Siri Pulipati has been a force for change since being elected in 2020. In just her first term, she has transformed challenges into opportunities, driving progress with a relentless commitment to her community. Siri has been instrumental in attracting tech companies to the region, creating new job opportunities and fueling economic growth. Her leadership in youth STEM programs has opened doors for the next generation, empowering young minds to dream big and achieve even more.

Her efforts are reducing bus transportation times and guaranteeing that the children of Rancho Cordova receive the top-tier education they deserve.

With a Master's Degree in Electrical Engineering from California State University, Sacramento (CSUS), and years of leadership experience in Fortune 500 companies, Siri is not just a leader; she is a trailblazer. As she runs for reelection, her vision is clear: to continue driving progress, fostering innovation, and ensuring that Rancho Cordova is a place where every resident can thrive.
